

Travel grant for students presenting at the 2018 CRDCN National Conference

The Network is pleased to inform students whose submission has been selected by the scientific committee for presentation at the 2018 CRDCN National Conference, and who are from outside Hamilton, that some funding from the Network is available to help them cover travel expenses related to their participation.

Important Information:

- Conference registration fees are not accepted for reimbursement. The grant is strictly reserved for travel and accommodation purposes (up to the amount allocated)
- The funds available are limited and will be shared among all eligible applicants, taking into consideration the distance traveled to attend the conference. Priority will be given to students who have no other sources of funding.
- Recipients will be informed of the amount that they have been allocated by September 15, 2018.
- Recipients are responsible for their own travel and accommodation arrangements as well as their conference registration.
- The grant will be disbursed after the conference, to confirm attendance, upon receipt of the Expense claim form and relevant documentation.
 - If traveling by airplane, by bus or by train, reimbursement is based on economy fares (up to the amount allocated). Original receipts and proof of payment will be required.
 - If travelling by car, reimbursement is $0.55/km (up to the amount allocated). Google map showing distance will be required.
- Since the grant will reimburse only a portion of the expenses incurred to attend the conference and will only be paid out after the conference, students should ensure that they are able to pay the full cost of attendance upfront. The CRDCN assumes no responsibilities should a recipient have to withdraw from the conference.

Please submit your grant application online by September 4, 2018.
